

Regenerative Business Approach

From conventional to regenerative management – the path to a sustainable future

Why

The demands of individuals, society and the planet are changing. For the 21st century, we need emergent approaches to rethink and reshape our economy. The Regenerative Business Approach is one such approach. It allows room for personal perspectives and inner concern. The basic needs of society and planetary boundaries form the guidelines of future-proof viability. Through the Business Redesign Story, opportunities for regenerative business emerge.

The concept

The consulting concept is divided into three phases. The pre-work phase establishes awareness of personal factors. By allowing oneself to be affected internally, regenerative approaches gain legitimacy and potential. The second phase of consulting begins with the mapping of activities, enablers and preventers as well

Format

Consulting concept focusing on realigning organizational activities towards regenerative business practices

Who for

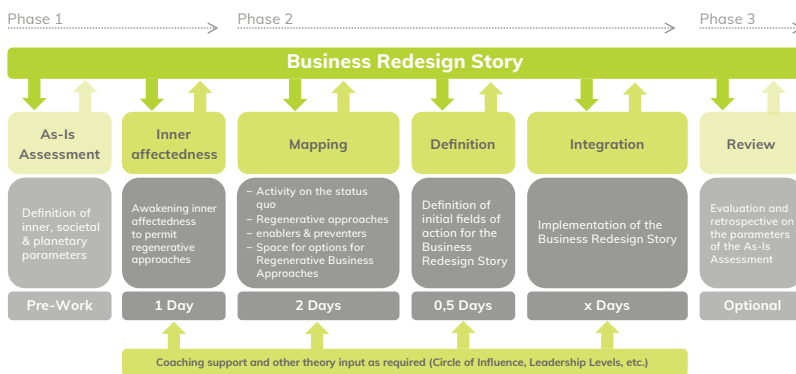

Leaders and employees who want to responsibly shape future viability

Contents

- Individual as-is assessment of internal, societal and planetary dimensions
- Awakening of inner affectedness to permit regenerative approaches
- Mapping: activities, approaches, enablers & preventers, space for options
- Defining fields of action and implementing the Business Redesign Story
- Theory input on: Donut Economy, Circle of Influence, Dimensions of Leadership, etc.

as space for options. This phase also includes theory input on the Circle of Influence, Dimensions of Leadership, etc. The definition of fields of action is followed by the integration of the Business Redesign Story. The third element, the review, concludes the consulting phases.

Information on organization and program:

The consulting format can be conducted for the entire organization or on a department-specific basis. Both the time frame and the individual consulting phases will be adapted to the client's needs. The participants will be invited in advance to fill out an as-is assessment. Once the pre-work phase is completed, consulting will preferably take place on-site and in person. If required, we can also offer individual coaching sessions.
